TOWEL SEWED INSIDE WOMAN IN OPERATION
Edmonton, Feb. 3.—That Mrs. Ruth Olsen, age 27, died at the General hospital on January 29 as a result of a towel, measuring 16x26 inches, being left in her body following an operation performed on Jan. 24 in the hospital, was the finding of a coroner's jury, which investigated the death on Saturday.

The attending physicians, Dr. H. E. Chatham and Dr. A. M. Crawford, were completely exonerated from any blame.

Evidence was given to the effect that death was due to peritonitis, resulting from the towel being left in the body.

The towel found in the body was known as a side towel and meant for external use only.

Miss M. Rivey, who assisted during the operation, and who testified that she was responsible for the check-up before the surgical wound was closed, said she did not count the side towels as they were never used internally.

URGES CHANGES IN SCHOOL ACT
Edmonton, Feb. 4.—Creation of more inspectors, rather than the appointment of a superintendent and two assistants, in each division, was the suggestion offered by Hector Lang, Liberal, Medicine Hat, in discussion of the new School Act during the course of his address on the Speech from the Throne in the legislature on Monday.

Mr. Lang, in pressing home his point, stated that he was of the opinion that the present system had not received a fair trial, in that the inspectors were too large in area for the trustees and teachers the attention that was their due.

He suggested that the province should not be divided into large units, that district and general boards be not created, and that there be no superintendents and assistants.

But should the minister resolve to adopt the larger unit, then he suggested that instead of a superintendent and two assistants that in each division there be two superior officers, one identical in appointment and official capacity with the present inspector, and the other a superintendent.

Board of Trade Expects Membership Increase to Be Great Through Drive

Prizes to Be Given in Contest, for Which Committee Is Appointed—Howard Stutchbury, Alberta Trade Commissioner, Delivers Highly Interesting Address—Road Building Forms Topic for Discussion

The joint monthly meeting of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade and the Kiwanis Club was held on Monday evening, and proved to be one of the most successful and enjoyable meetings ever held here. There was a large attendance and the members were raised to a high state of enthusiasm as the speaker of the evening referred to the wonderful potential wealth of this province. W. Prest, president of the Board, presided at the meeting.

A lengthy letter from J. D. Robinson, Deputy Minister of Public Works, on the question of road building was read, and in the discussion which followed, Ed. Mason and J. H. Hodson were the principal speakers.

H. J. Montgomery, chairman of the Membership Committee, outlined a plan for increased membership this year. The objective set is three hundred members, and the committee is offering a major prize to anyone obtaining the greatest number of members, and a second prize will be given to the person instrumental in getting the greatest number of country members. There will also be a prize given to anyone getting ten new members. The membership committee is composed of H. J. Montgomery, chairman; Alex. Cummings, Wm. Mellett, Thos. Torsen, F. H. Blackwell, W. E. Bridgman and M. R. Hardy.

Richard Balhorn, Chairman of the Agricultural Committee, reported that a Seed Fair will be held in Wetaskiwin on Friday, February 21st, and the chairman referred to the Mouth Health Campaign to be held here on February 24th and 25th.

As the meeting drew to a close, Mrs. W. Groves, very graciously appreciated the efforts of the committee, and the Trade Commissioner, who was the speaker of the evening, was then introduced by President Prest. He prefaced his remarks by extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Nels Linden on their outstanding success at the Toronto and Chicago exhibitions, and expressed the opinion that every resident in Wetaskiwin and community should join the Board of Trade and help in the good work that is being done. Continuing, Mr. Stutchbury referred to some of the great wealth of Alberta's natural resources.

He stated that this province has 14 per cent of coal of the world, 47 per cent of the coal in Canada, and 22 per cent of the coal on the North American continent. Sixty-eight per cent of the petroleum used in Canada last year was produced in Alberta. This province also produced ten million barrels of oil, and we have only begun to touch the oil production. Sixty-three per cent of the natural gas of Canada is produced in Alberta. He also referred to the wonderful wealth bound up in the bituminous sands, as well as to the 2,000 square miles of merchantable timber and to the 2,000 square miles of lakes. Half a ton of fish is being shipped every week to the United States. He also briefly referred to the millions of h.p. of electric energy which can be developed in this province, as well as to the Jasper and Banff national parks, the products which will be produced in the near future.

Mr. Stutchbury also exhibited some beautiful samples of art pottery made at Medicine Hat, and stated that last year, 170 car loads of clay materials were shipped to east of the Great Lakes. He also exhibited a pair of all wool socks made by a factory located in Calgary. Wetaskiwin prided itself in being a foremost dairy section, but two solid trainloads of condensed and powdered milk came into Alberta last year. Several companies will locate in Alberta and manufacture powdered and condensed milk, as well as casein, as soon as a sufficient guarantee of skim milk can be made. Dairying increased the wealth of the state of Wisconsin by one hundred million dollars in five years, and there is no reason why the wealth of Alberta could not be increased by twenty-five million in the same manner.

Mr. Stutchbury also referred to the products of the sugar beet factories, and concluded his very thoughtful address by urging that Albertans purchase sugar and other products made in this province, thereby helping the local industries.

RAILWAY PLANS OUTLINED BY M.P.
Coronation, Feb. 4.—Robert Gardiner, M.P. for Acadia, and John Blue, secretary of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, were the guests and speakers of the Coronation Board of Trade held in the Royal Crown hotel on Friday night, 81 members being present, farmers and town people.

Mr. Gardiner is a member of the railway committee of the House of Commons. He indicated that the railway under construction to line Edmonton and Youngstown, via Coronation, would ultimately go south-east to Empress and Swift Current. Not more than six weeks ago in conversation with D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the C.P.R. for western lines, Mr. Gardiner was informed that a suitable grade was being sought south of the Goose Lake line, which would be useful to the C.P.R. and C.N.R., amicable arrangements having been made to by the executives of both roads to avoid duplication of work.

From Empress, North-west a survey is being made to hit the Acadia Valley line.

Mr. Blue spoke strongly on the value of Boards of Trade and the good work they were doing for their districts, for Alberta and for Canada. There was no plan or district to have a board, and their value for creating harmony between farmer and business man was incalculable, he said.

REVIEW YEAR'S WORK
IN MOTION TO ADOPT
SPEECH FROM THRONE

Edmonton, Jan. 31.—The quality of Alberta's wheat crop of 1929 was the highest in the province in spite of the fact that alternate hail and drought resulted in partial crop failures in many districts, and a resultant decrease in the total crop yield. A. L. Sanders, U.F.A., Sedgwick, stated, in moving the adoption of the speech from the throne when the legislature convened Friday afternoon.

Mr. Sanders referred briefly to the forecast of legislation outlined in the speech from the throne. He expressed regret at the death of former Lieutenant Governor R. G. Brett, and at the resignation of Hon. A. A. McMillan, K.C., of Calgary, leader of the Conservative party in the house. He also congratulated D. M. Duggan, of Edmonton, on his elevation to the leadership of the Conservative party in the house.

After reviewing conditions which had prevailed throughout the province during the past year, Mr. Sanders outlined some of the work accomplished by the government. He referred especially to the huge amount of road development work carried out by the department of public works, and the continued battle against the noxious weed menace carried on by the department of agriculture. He also praised the activities of the department of health, and the various other government departments.

Mr. Sanders said that the increased quality of Alberta grain was easily the outstanding event of the year. Mr. Sanders also referred to the large number of awards secured by both Alberta grain and livestock at the Toronto Royal, and at the Chicago International exhibition.

Congratulations to Premier J. E. Brownlee and his government for the successful termination of the negotiations with the federal government for the return of the natural resources was extended by Mr. Sanders. The motion to adopt the speech from the throne was seconded by George MacLachlan, U.F.A., Pembina. Mr. MacLachlan reviewed the economic and administrative effect of legislation passed by the government during recent years, and outlined at some length the legislation which would come before the house during the present session.

Mr. MacLachlan was inclined to lay considerable stress upon the appointment of D. M. Duggan as leader of the Conservative party in the house. He expressed the belief that it marked the acceptance by the people of Alberta of a new system of government, and that through this province it may spread to all the provinces of the Dominion.

"Is it an acceptance of this government's policy that we see in the new Conservative leader?" he asked. "Mr. Duggan has always taken a prominent part in the debates in this house. He has always been fair in the criticism of government policies and constructive in his suggestions. In a speech made in the house last year, Mr. Duggan said: 'The legislature should be more like a glorified city council. I have never been an advocate of the application of party in provincial affairs, and I hope that the day will come when something more representative of the interests to be served would be set up.'"

"Can we consider this an acceptance of the policy first advocated by the United Farmers, and for the past nine years successfully put into practice as far as it was possible by the government of the province," Mr. MacLachlan asked.

Mr. MacLachlan referred at some length to the probable land policy of the government in line with the return of the resources. Three separate policies regarding colonization will have to be considered, he said. First, the present policy of free homesteads; secondly, reservation of a number of sections in each township and thirdly, free homesteads. He objected to a policy of uncontrolled and indiscriminate settlement, stating that many of the problems of the province could be traced to this condition.

VARIETIES OF BARLEY FOR ALBERTA

(Experimental Farms Note)
There is no one best variety of barley for Alberta. The variety recommended will depend on the needs of the grower. The varieties available vary in yield, length and strength of straw, and quality of threshed grain; hence the variety to recommend must be governed by the district in which it is to be grown, the kind of soil and whether the threshed grain is to be used for feed, or for malting in Canada, or in Great Britain.

O.A.C. No. 21 is recognized as the standard brewing barley for the Canadian trade. It has a long straw, of fair strength, and is a good yielder. The Canadian Brewers offer a premium for well matured, plump, bright grain of this variety that is free from impurities. Growers who are considering barley production for the brewing trade would be well advised to use this sort. It is also an excellent feed variety.

Trebil has consistently been one of the heaviest yielding barleys tested at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe. It has straw of medium length and strength. The grain tends towards coarseness and is not favored by Canadian brewers. In view of the prejudice against it by Canadian brewers, it would seem that the production of this barley should at present be considered mainly from the feed standpoint.

The two-rowed barleys, individually and as a group, produce very fine appearing samples of threshed grain which is plump and high in feeding value. As a class they do not yield as well in this Province as do the six-rowed sorts.

Canadian Thorpe and Duckbill are two outstanding varieties of two-rowed barley. These varieties have stronger straw than any of the six-rowed sorts now available in the seed trade. Canadian Thorpe will slightly outyield, but has slightly weaker straw than Duckbill. These varieties are only fair yielders, but it is possible that, because of their strength of straw, they may have a place on strong land where other sorts lodge badly.

Hannchen is another two-rowed sort, that will usually outyield both Canadian Thorpe and Duckbill here. More O.A.C. No. 21 is grown than of all other varieties combined, but the other varieties mentioned are well worthy of a trial.

Eight hundred and sixteen persons were disciplined during the year. Hotel premises carrying beer licenses number 376. During the year thirty-one licensees were disciplined for offenses under the act, 24 for minor infractions and seven for major infractions. Forty-seven clubs were also issued beer licenses. WORLD'S GRAIN CONFERENCE

Development of the work of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held in Regina in 1932 has been made it necessary for the staff to move from the Stadium on the Regina Exhibition Grounds to larger offices.

The prize list consists of 55 classes distributed for wheat, oats, barley, corn, rye, buckwheat, rice, millet, and peas, soy beans, flax, hemp, alfalfa clover, grasses, sunflower, field roots and vegetables—$200,000 in cash prizes.

There are six classes in the wheat section: Hard Red Spring, Hard Red Winter, Soft Red Winter, White Winter, Durum and a special class for ten bushels of Hard Red Spring Wheat.

The International Dog Sled Derby at Quebec

Prizes aggregating $4,250 will be among the trophies to be competed for in the International Dog Sled Derby to be held at Quebec City, February 20-22. Teams entering will cover a course of about 40 miles each day making a total of about 120 miles in all. This is the high light in the Quebec Winter Sports season beginning late in December and continuing until March. The event terminates with the Dog Derby Masquerade Ball at the Chateau Frontenac, which is the headquarters of the sports season. All the most prominent dog mushers of the continent figure or have figured at one time or another in the Derby and it is generally regarded as the biggest thing of its kind in America. Since 1922 when the contest had its inception, times have been consistently cut down. In that year the course was completed in 15 hours 36 minutes, but last year Leonard Seppala, hero of the dash to Nome, made it in 11 hours, six minutes, 33 seconds. Lay-out shows Chateau Frontenac, upper inset, Emil St. Godard, three times winner of the Derby; lower inset, Leonard Seppala last year's winner in record time.

In each of the first four classes the prizes total $15,000. There are fifty prizes in each class the first being $2,500 graded down to $50 for the fiftieth prize. In the Durum class the prizes total $10,000, the first being $1,500 graded down to $25 for the fiftieth prize—fifty prizes in each class. Each exhibit must bear variety name and consist of 50 pounds.

ALBERTA TO BACK MARKET PROTECTION

Edmonton, Feb. 1.—Alberta will stand with the province of Manitoba in an effort to protect business interests against the effect of possible dumping of grain on the market by brokerage houses which have been trading extensively in grain futures, Premier Brownlee announced Friday night.

"All the resources of the province are available in order to give every possible protection to Alberta investors in case there should be extensive dumping of grain," the premier said, however, indicating that this province would stand right in line with Manitoba in the announced move to protect interests of provincial investors. Similarly, Alberta would be represented quite definitely at the forthcoming conference of attorneys-general of Canada, in connection with the stock brokerage situation.

Announcement to this effect was made by Mr. Brownlee on Thursday and on Friday afternoon Attorney-General Lyburn talked with Attorney-General Price of Ontario, over the long distance telephone.

OVERWEIGHT

(By Walt Mason)
How worried is the modern skate, who is informed that overweight is fatal, every time that with his teeth he digs his grave, that he must shun what he may crave, that eating is a crime. He is a stranger to all mirth; he's always measuring his girth, and weighing on a scale; and if he finds he's gained a pound since last he made the wheels go round, he feels himself grow pale. The dose are preaching right along that eating wholesome grub is wrying, all men should live on hay; 'tho' fat men listen to their rede, and dodge the grub on which they'd feed, and weigh, and weigh, and weigh. I know a thousand weary wights who have forewarned the same delights that well cooked victuals yield; no more on luscious pies they browse, but emulate the grass-fed cows in yonder pasture field. No doubt this modern scheme is wise, no doubt full of a fellow dis from eating too much cake; the doctors know just where their stand, with science rules at their command, their dictum is no fake. But while with other fans I graze, I think about the good old days when diets were unknown; man ate the things he liked the best, immune pie within his vest, and made no previous groan. When he confessed to pain I felt the doctor gave him pie-green pills, and did not say, "My friend, you'll have to live on shredded slaw and Swedish turnips eaten raw, or eat 'em 'tactly end."

And while the old, old ways were wrong, the people seemed to live as long as people live today; no steaming thralls were denied, they took the things the gods provide, and they were blithe and gay.

SYNOPSIS

At a party in Palm Beach given by Mrs. Cooper Clark, Leson, an attorney, met Lucy Harkness, known as Devil-May-Care because of her adventures, eventful life. In a game in which partners for the evening are chosen, Lucy is won by Tim Stevens, who has a great reputation as a successful heart-breaker. Leson is a bit jealous. Tim Stevens tells Lucy they are going aboard his yacht the Minerva, and she agrees in order not to be a "quitter." Asked if she is sorry that she won her company, Lucy says she is not and that eventually Fate has arranged it. Tim thereupon tells her to stop looking regretfully after Leson.

hates, and promptly runs away from him, going to her staunch friend Dr. Fergus Faunce to tell what she has done. Stevens sets out in search of Lucy. Meanwhile, Dr. Faunce and Lucy launch a new boat. A hurricane wrecks them on their first trip. Lucy is saved, and finds herself aboard the Minerva, wondering what happened to Dr. Faunce. Dr. Faunce is aboard the Minerva also. Stevens threatens to kill Faunce unless Lucy sticks to him. To save Faunce she accedes, but expresses hate for Stevens. A few minutes later he startles her by saying he doesn't want her, and never will! Leson sees Lucy and in a burst of confidence tells her of a plot

He opened a drawer, drew forth a check-book, and began writing in it with a fountain pen. She saw that it was a check made out to her for two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Aboard Stevens' boat, the Minerva, Stevens tells Lucy of his love. When she replies with contempt for him, he grows violently angry and she becomes afraid of him. He says he will never let her go from the Minerva until she accepts him. To escape him, she leaps into the water from her cabin window, swimming a short distance under water.

Lucy reaches land and meets Dr. Fergus Faunce on an island. He takes care of her, and takes her home. Everyone is worried about her and when she meets Stevens he is frantic, regretful and still ardent in protestations of love.

Leson informs Lucy that Stevens must raise a quarter of a million dollars or go to jail—"at five o'clock." Lucy goes to her bank and raises the sum.

Lucy goes to Stevens to help him, but he refuses to take money from a woman to whom he is not married. So Lucy marries this man that she that a character in a motion picture might have uttered.

But Lucy was in no mood to be captious, to pick flaws in praise or the persons who uttered it.

"Tim has done well, hasn't he?" she said.

Elsie Darragh laughed.

"Well? If he's saved a third of men and women he's supposed to have dragged out of the Breakers, he's done more than well."

She heard men crying hoarsely, ordering others to make way for their passage. Several of them were bearing, on an improvised stretcher, the body of a man.

She heard some one ask if he were dead. One of the bearers shrugged.

"Looks like it," answered.

"Who is it?" another queried.

"Tim Stevens," said the bearer.

She was not surprised, either then or later, that she was able to take instant charge of Tim.

Not merely had Stevens been badly burned, but he had been struck by a falling timber, and while the skull was not fractured, serious injury had been done. Not until the twenty-fourth day was he pronounced completely out of danger.

And on that day Lucy went to bed, to stay there a week. When she got up again, the cloud had disappeared from her faculties and she was herself again. She had not been ill during this week, simply completely worn out, nervously exhausted. Her vigil by Tim's bedside had been almost continuous for over three weeks.

On the bridge at Seminole Creek he had shown himself possessed of physical courage equal to any she had ever witnessed. On the roof of the cottage he had shown ability to withstand punishment when the event called for it. And the manner of his injury had been fine. A negro planned beneath debris—Tim Stevens pulled the man out—Tim Stevens warned that the roof above was falling. Tim Stevens refusing to flee to safety, but staying until he had released the colored man. This was sacrifice, of the finest sort. Forget all the passion-inspired brutalities that he had used, or tried to use, against himself, and one had found a pretty decent sort.

But there was something else. He had stolen. No argument could overwhelm this fact; he had been saved from jail only by the acceptance of a quarter of a million of her money.

On the morning that she arose from bed she found Stevens lying on a couch in the patio. His great frame looked pitifully thin beneath the light coverlets. But he had been freshly shaved, and the gauntness of his face lent a certain attraction to his almost too obvious good looks. He would see reflected, be as handsome in age, when he was in the flush of early manhood. He held out a trembling hand to her.

"You're all right?" he asked eagerly.

"Fine!" she smiled.

"I feel like a great big dub," he said bitterly, "letting you wear yourself out taking care of a hulk like me! I can't say thank you; it's so little to say."

"I married you," she retorted. "Should a person back out of a bargain because it seems not quite so advantageous as it looked when one entered into it?"

"I looked better at the ceremony than later, then," he grinned.

She blushed.

"You didn't appeal to me at the time," she said bitterly. "But—I did enter into a bargain. I'm making good."

He sighed, and his sigh was pitiful, coming from Tim Stevens, who might curse or even sob, but who had never been plaintive in his life before.

"Well, much obliged, anyway. I sort of thought—I hoped—Well, I was born a damn fool, Lucy, and I suppose I'll die one. Too bad I wasn't completely knocked off while I was at it. End a rotten situation if I had been." She made no reply, and silence ensued for a minute, to be broken by his bitter speech:

"I suppose you'd have been glad if I had been killed."

"That is babyish," she told him. "I'm glad you're alive, Tim. Mighty glad of it. And I'm proud of your behaviour at the fire. You're a brave man—a hero, I guess. But you're something else, too, Tim."

"Your husband, eh?" he sneered.

"A thief," she said. "And—can't ever forget that."

His eyes narrowed.

"A thief, eh? If it weren't for that you'd be—well, even you might even be my wife, eh?"

She put her hands before her face.

"How do I know? You're different; you're fiercer in a hundred ways than I'd dreamed. But you can't blot out the past, Tim."

"Who the hell wants to?" he asked harshly. "Do you remember what I told you that night on Barracuda Island?"

She removed her hands from her eyes and smiled bravely at him.

"I remember that you weren't very polite."

"I told you that you could go to hell and be damned, that's what I said. I told you then, and I say it again now."

She shrank away from the blazing fury of his eyes.

"What do you mean?" she asked.

"Mean? I mean I'm sick of you with your blasted hellier-than-thou airs, right, that makes us square."

"How—how does it make us square?" she asked.

"Because you owe me a lot—a damn sight more than you'll ever know, my chaste and dainty Devil-

May-Care!" he jeered. "But you've paid it by nursing me. Anyway, we'll call the amount cancelled." He rose on his elbow. "I wouldn't let you divorce me; I wouldn't get a divorce myself. Well, I thought I was going to a woman, not a cold-blooded saint just descended from Heaven. Damn saints! I want no part of them."

"Now you can have your divorce. And for fear you may have trouble in getting it I'll give you grounds, plenty of grounds. There's a girl married here now—a good egg, too, a darn sight better egg than you'll ever be, for all she's been kept by half town. New York. Or, if she's gone back north, I'll get her down here again. Understand?"

"I'm not sure that I do," she said faintly.

"Well, you'll be able to name her as co-respondent. She'll be my mistress, living here openly with me. She won't mind being named; she's been named before. Now, you want a sharing in the proceeds of a theft."

divorce. Go on, get it. Here—wait a moment. Shove that table over here, will you, please?"

This was a Tim who had never known before; he had known a mad and violent Tim, who, she thought, would stop at nothing in the gratification of his passions.

This was a Tim whose very illness lent a contradictory vigor to his contemptuous denunciations. Meekly she pushed toward him the table he indicated.

He opened a drawer, drew forth a check-book, and began writing in it with a fountain-pen. He ripped a leaf out of the book, and pushed it across to her. She saw that it was a check made out to her order for two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

"You—made this—out of your real estate?" she asked.

He nodded.

"Didn't steal it, either," he sneered. "Earned it. You needn't be afraid to take it; you'll not be arrested for a sharing in the proceeds of a theft."

And your lawyers can confer with mine about settlements and alimony and the rest of it."

"Do you think," she blazed, "that I'd take a cent of your money? Do you think I'd do that?"

"Ma'am, Mrs. Stevens, could I have a word with you?"

She didn't like the man, but—

"I certainly owe you a word, Madam," she said. "You saved my life, you know."

Madame had removed his yachting-cap now, and was twisting it in his fingers.

"I dunno how you made that mis-take, Mrs. Stevens," he said. "And the boss let it ride that other time you mentioned it, but it was him who he'd take a run-out powder if you was in trouble, ma'am? Why, he'd wait went overboard after you and Dr. Faunce, ma'am. He knew it was you, through the blazin' fringes of hell, too, for he yelled your name as he was dived."

"He saved me?" she gasped.

"Nobody else, ma'am. And I—he's mine about settlements and alimony and the rest of it."

"Do you think," she blazed, "that I'd take a cent of your money? Do you think I'd do that?"

"Ma'am, Mrs. Stevens, could I have a word with you?"

Bladder Weakness Wrecking Health of Thousands

A big percentage—some claim two out of three—of men and women of mature age are troubled with Bladder and Urinary Weakness, causing Backaches, Headaches, Nervousness, frequent night risings and burning irritations throughout the day. These conditions not only make life miserable, but they sap vitality, undermine health and frequently lead to most painful operations.

In an effort to swiftly relieve and comfort even the most obstinate and distressing of these conditions, a well known physician offers the value of "Uratabs," a treatment he has successfully used for over 40 years. Dr. Southworth's "Uratabs" come in plain sealed packages containing 10 days' treatment—and all who need such a medicine are invited to try it at once without slightest risk of cost unless pleased with results. Any good drugist will supply you on a binding guarantee of satisfaction or money back on first box purchased.

BIBLE SCHOOL

The Bible Institute under the auspices of the Swedish Baptist Conference, has opened for another six weeks' term, under the able leadership of Rev. Hansell and Rev. Larsen.

Young people are present from Kipling, Saskatchewan; St. Lina, Burn Lake, Loughheed, Mallaig, Alberta, besides from Wetaskiwin vicinity, making a total enrollment of fifteen.

For the fourth year Mrs. Peterson has kindly taken over the responsibility of cooking.

The courses of study are Bible Synthesis, Life of Christ, and Religious Work and Training, which are three of the subjects which are given in the regular Missionary Training Course at Bethel Institute, St. Paul. Credits for these courses will be recognized by this higher institution should students desire to take further work there.

On Tuesday, Dr. Litch, Supt. of Missions, had an inspiring message, which brought to the hearts of all the surety of God's love for us and our obligations.

Every Thursday evening Rev. Hansell holds meetings in English at eight o'clock at the Swedish Baptist Church. As many as can should take the opportunity of hearing him.

Next Monday, the Institute pupils are invited to the German Baptist Church out west.

COMMUNICATION

(We do not necessarily endorse the sentiments advanced by this or any other correspondent under this heading.—Ed.)

To the Editor, Wetaskiwin Times:

RE ROAD CONDITIONS
During a drive recently, over forty long, weary western miles, with a team of horses, a few things regarding the conditions of the roads at the present time were brought very forcibly to my attention, and I thought a few words in that connection would not be amiss.

Times have changed, conditions have changed. What was taken as a matter of course a few years ago, the same conditions create a hardship today. Cars and trucks have come into such common use it is almost absolutely necessary that our main roads be kept open for their use the year round. Especially does this apply to the outlying districts. For instance, take the road that we, in this part of the country are more particularly interested in, the South Pigeon Lake road, serving a country tributary to Wetaskiwin for some sixty miles west. I have no hesitation in saying, without fear of contradiction, that no road leading into Wetaskiwin brings so much produce to market or so much business to the merchants of Wetaskiwin as does this one main road from the West country.

A large percentage of the people along this road have cars, and some have trucks, not as a luxury, but as a necessity, and they depend on those cars and trucks to go to town and back in half a day or a day as the blocked, as they are at present, they are forced to go with a team, spending from two to four days away from home at considerable expense and a great deal of inconvenience and exposure. Yet you will find some people who are so far behind the times and so inconsiderate of others, as to tell you that there is no need of keeping the roads open for cars in the winter. There is another very important reason why our main roads, leading out into the country, away from the railroads, should be kept open during the winter, and that is in case of sickness. I tell you it is not very nice to be taken sick thirty, forty or fifty miles from medical help, and when you call a doctor, he tells you he can't come because the roads are blocked for cars. I tell you it is a crime.

I have no quarrel with the Government for spending our money to keep the highway open, a road that is paralleled by the railroad, but I do say that if the highway was blocked, the people who use that highway would not suffer as much inconvenience as the people in the rural districts suffer by these main roads to the country being blocked, for they can go any place, ship their produce when they wish, and have anything shipped to them over the railroad. So I say, if the Government, the City of Wetaskiwin, and the different Municipalities affected, want to do a real service to the people who are denying themselves the privilege of town and city life, by living on the far out farms, here is a first-class opportunity.

It is a conceded fact that the prosperity of the town, city and country generally, depends on the success of case may be, but when the roads are the man on the land. There are two those in control, to open up the road. question that the man from the country often has to answer when he benefits the road in the spring and be goes to town, these are, "How are the crops?" and "How are the roads?" generally, which goes to show that the banker, the merchant, the barber, are all very much interested in both of these things.

The Municipality of Columbia has kept the road open for cars from Westeros to west, but it is impossible in places from Westeros to Wetaskiwin.

On behalf of the people living in the West country, I am making a plea to

TOFIELD WIN FROM WETASKIWIN 3-1

The Tofield junior hockey team, fresh from a victory over the Edmonton Acme's on Friday, succeeded in making it two in a row at the expense of the Wetaskiwin juniors last Saturday.

Flashing a good brand of combination play, the Tofielders needed only a few minutes of play to show that they were going to give their speedier opponents a real battle.

The ice was a little heavy and play opened on the slow order, each team being content to feel out the strength of their opponents. Near the middle of the first period, W. Worton obtained a loose puck near the Wetaskiwin blue line and shot in a sizer which Walker didn't even see. Score 1-0 for Tofield. This was enough to set the fireworks going and play opened up briskly, but the heavy ice made it difficult to pass well. Shortly before the end of the period Whyte, on left wing, took a pass and made it good, but he was ruled offside.

The ice was improved for the second spasm and Wetaskiwin came back determined to even the count, but most of their attempts were broken up by the opposing defense, or the shots smothered by Bowick, who was playing a brilliant game in goal for the visitors. The Wetaskiwin boys were outskating their opponents, but too much individual play was in evidence, with a lack of combination. Near the end of the period, Whyte, on left wing for the visitors, shot a long one from the blue line. Collett tried to get it with his hand, but let it slip past and right into the goal. This was a tough break for Wetaskiwin, but lucky for the visitors.

At the half the score stood 2-0 for Tofield. The third period brought out some improvement in the Wetaskiwin team play, and some thrilling individual rushes. Several times Watson, Larsen, or Farewell, would get right through with only the goalie to beat, but either someone came in from behind to check the shot, or Bowick coolly blocked. Score at the end of the third period, 2-0 for Tofield.

The last period was the best hockey of the game. Larsen and Watson were setting a fast clip, and Merner and Farewell were also going well. Near the middle of the period, Farewell was right through with just the goalie to beat, he slipped it across to Merner, who connected for Wetaskiwin's first goal. Score 2-1 for Tofield. The fans roared their approval. Play was speeding up. S. Worton on right wing, got away with a nice solo and had only Walker to beat. He blocked the shot but could not clear so Worton shoved it into an open goal. The game ended 3-1 for the visitors.

The Tofield boys are a smooth working aggregation and well deserved their win on their team play, but their two first goals were of the variety.

The Wetaskiwin boys were faster, but lack of team play cost them the game. They are working-out consistently, and when the return game is played in Tofield, a different result is expected.

The play was clean, with only three penalties handed out. Mr. Somers acted as referee to the satisfaction of everybody. The boys all appreciate the support given them by the fans and the Sports Association, who have made a liberal contribution.

Following is the lineup:
Tofield—Goal, Bowick; defence, Martin, Glover; forwards, W. Worton, S. Worton, R. Whyte; subs, Thompson, Swinton.
Wetaskiwin—Goal, Walker; defence, Watson, Collett; forwards, Larsen, Farewell, Merner; subs, Greiner, Abousanfy, Paton.

FATHER BELLEVAIRE DUHAMEL, HONORED ON 82ND BIRTHDAY

A very happy occasion was celebrated at the home of the venerable Abbe, Father Bellevoire, Duhamel, on Tuesday, January 21, when the Catholic Women's League entertained in honor of his 82nd birthday. More than sixty friends were in attendance, and after a bountiful supper had been served, the evening was spent at cards.

Father Bellevoire enjoys the distinction of being one of Western Canada's pioneer ministers, and has about fifty years of service in the little parish of Duhamel to his credit. He ministered to a handful of settlers at the original Duhamel settlement, nine miles south of Camrose, when Edmonton and Calgary were outposts of civilization and laid claim to no more imposing edifice than a Hudson's Bay post.

With the exception of rare visits to his homeland, France, the energetic, pink-cheeked, white-haired little priest has been as much a part of the Duhamel valley as the majestic confers that line the river banks, and has come to be regarded in somewhat the same light as the late Queen Victoria, not as a personality or a character but rather as an institution embodying simplicity of living, devotion to duty and affection for his subjects. However, at Father Bellevoire's age, Queen Victoria had completed her earthly career, whereas the little shepherd of the Duhamel valley, is still giving attention to his parish work, and to all intents and purposes, will continue doing so for some time.

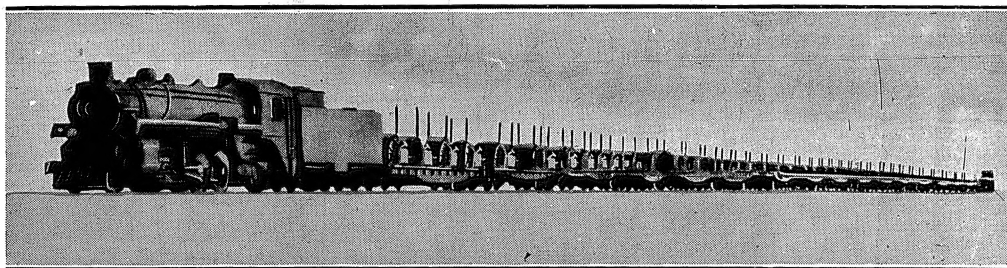

His well-wishers throughout the province will join in extending birthday greetings with the added wish that he may go on enjoying health and the power to perform the many duties that devolve upon him in the position he occupies—Western Catholic.

Weddings

GRAY-ZELMER

A pretty marriage took place at the United Church Parsonage on Thursday evening, at 5:30 p.m., when Robert Leonard Gray was united in marriage to Miss Elsie Hilda Zelmner, daughter of Mr. John Zelmner. The ceremony took place in the presence of immediate relatives of the parties participating. The bride was dressed in beautiful pastel yellow, with silk lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by Mrs. Dayvie Zelmner and the groom was assisted by Mr. John Zelmner. The parties repaired after the ceremony to the residence of the groom's parents, where the wedding supper was served, with the large circle of relatives participating.

The bride's going-away costume was a brown silk dress and a brown broadcloth coat.

The happy couple will take up their residence on the groom's farm immediately south of his parents.

The officiating clergyman was the Pastor, Rev. L. R. Macdonald.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discovered a pleasant, safe, and effective remedy in the form of a powerful, stomachic, and antacid, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Blaustrated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Blaustrated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful antacid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Blaustrated Magnesia, especially prepared for stomach use.

Obituary

THEODORE JUST

There passed away at Millet on Saturday, January 25th, another Alberta pioneer, in the person of Theodore Just, at the age of 71 years, eleven months and eleven days.

The late Theodore Just, who farmed east of Millet, was born at Hellowood, Poland, and arrived in southern Minnesota with his parents, at the age of thirteen years and came to Alberta in 1893. He homesteaded one mile west of New Norway and lived in Ferintosh a number of years, and moved to Millet in 1919, where he lived till he passed away. He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, Mrs. Matilda Just, four sons: Gustave, Millet, William, Coal Lake; Walter, Coal Lake, and Fred, Jarow; one daughter Mrs. T. Pearson, Minneapolis, Minn.; grandchildren, Mrs. N. N. Johnson, Minneapolis; Mrs. W. Norrow, Minneapolis; Miss J. Pearson, Minneapolis, and Miss Julia Just, Jarow; and great grandchild, Miss Gene Johnson, Minneapolis.

The remains were laid away in the family plot in the Fridheim churchyard, 5 miles east of Ferintosh, where a large number of friends gathered to pay their last respects to the deceased. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. G. Ecklund.

Wreaths were sent by his loving wife, Gustave and wife, Fred and wife, Mrs. N. N. Johnson, Mrs. W. Morrow, Nicholas Gihbenheim, and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Mitchell.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get a course of Eumint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

HOCKEY

The "Huskies" group of Trail Rangers played their second hockey match for the season with a Trail Ranger Group from Leduc, on Saturday afternoon in the Millet skating rink.

Some supporters of the northern town motored down with the boys, including Rev. MacPherson, Mr. Willis of Leduc, acted as umpire.

The local players included John Darchuk, Leroy Corney Gordon Kerr, Stanton Elder (captain), Yee Quong, Robert Allison, Harry Olsky, Howard Higginson and Douglas Thorne. Four periods of fifteen minutes each was the play duration. The play reflected credit on both sides. The score was 4 to 1 in favor of the visitors. In the home team there are several promising players. In the last quarter the home boys made a determined stand to equalize the score, and for a time peppered the opponents goal with hot ones, but the Leduc goal-keeper was an alert one and their efforts did not meet the success they desired. Captain Stanton deserves boys have met this team before and great credit for his individual rushes they contain some swift skaters. The untiring energy. More team work boys will appreciate it and do their among the boys will meet with a best bet if the fans will turn out to support score in the future.
